

and Electronics Use Policy

I acknowledge that I have received, read, and understand the Computer and Electronics Use Policy of MH Construction Inc. I agree to comply with all guidelines, requirements, and restrictions outlined in the policy. I understand that any violation may result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment, as well as possible legal consequences.

I understand that MH Construction Inc. reserves the right to monitor and review all use of company devices, networks, and communication systems as described in the policy.

By signing below, I acknowledge my responsibility to uphold this policy and agree to abide by its terms.

Employee Name: _____

Position/Title: _____

Signature: _____

Date: _____

Employee Copy. Keep for your records.

Personal Information

It is important that the personnel records of MH Construction Inc. be accurate at all times. All employees are required to inform MH Construction Inc. if they have a change in any of the following: Name, Address, Phone number/Cell number, Person to be notified in case of an emergency, email address, and Marital Status/Dependents

MH Construction Inc. does not give out personal employee information.

Employment Categories

Probationary -- All newly hired employees are considered probationary employees until completing 90 days of employment AND receive a satisfactory evaluation from management.

Part Time -- A part-time Employee is one who works less than 30 hours per week. The hours must be approved on a weekly basis if they exceed 30 hours per week. Part-time employees are paid on a per hour basis and may not be eligible for company benefits. Part-time employees are eligible to accrue paid time off. Part-time employees must accurately track their daily time worked by weekly timecards.

Temporary -- A temporary employee is one who is retained on a limited time basis as needed and is called upon from time to time for special projects. Temporary employees may not be eligible for company benefits. Temporary employees must accurately track their daily time worked by weekly timecards.

Non-Exempt (Hourly) – A non-exempt employee is one who works more than 30 hours per week. Non-exempt employees are paid on a per hour basis. Non-exempt employees are expected to maintain an in and out time record of daily time worked by weekly timecards. These positions are eligible for overtime pay if more than 40 hours are worked in a workweek. Any overtime or nonstandard hours must be approved, before they occur, by the employee's job superintendent or management.

Exempt (Salaried) -- These positions are excluded from the overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. An employee who is classified as exempt is paid a salary, regardless of the number of hours it takes to complete weekly tasks. Salaried employees are eligible for the same benefits as full-time employees, apart from overtime compensation or compensation time. Your salary takes into consideration your skill level as well as the hours your job demands.

An employee hired by MH Construction Inc. will be on probation for the first 90 days. This will be set up by your supervisor at the time of hire. The probationary period is the final phase of the selection process and is used to ensure that the new employee possesses the technical and interpersonal skills needed to perform the job satisfactorily and to interact successfully with the MH Construction Inc. team. Failure to receive a satisfactory evaluation during or at the end of this probationary period will result in termination.

Work Schedules

The normal MH Construction Inc. work week is Monday through Friday. Operating hours for field employees are between 7:00AM and 3:30PM. Normal office hours are from 7:00AM. to 4:00PM. Every full-time employee is expected to work at least an 8-hour day, five days a week. There may be an agreement between a supervisor and employee to modify this schedule if it meets management approval.

Field employees are expected to arrive at their assigned job sites ready to work, not to the office, at the start of the day.

Office Employees are expected to arrive to the office at the start of the day.

Full-time employees are allowed a 30-minute lunch period. Part-time employees' lunches are scheduled as needed. All breaks offered will be in accordance with state laws.

If the company requires you to work through your lunch period, the company will pay for your lunch period.

If you are going to be late, you must contact your supervisor as well as the General Manager. Failure to do so will result in a verbal warning. After 1 verbal warning your employee status will be under review and subject to termination.

Attendance

Chronic, habitual, and/or excessive lateness or absenteeism will not be tolerated. Lateness, absenteeism, and failure to follow call-in procedures are causes for disciplinary actions up to and including termination.

MH Construction Inc. has some very busy months (usually March-September). During this time, employees are required to be available for longer, busier days. We discourage vacations being taken during these months but will do our best to accommodate requests.

When reporting sick to work, make sure you report to the General Manager as well as the superintendent that you are assigned to work with that day. If you are a super or are working on a site by yourself, report to the General Manager, Manpower coordinator or the President of the company.

MH Construction recognizes the following eight holidays and will be closed on the following days:

- New Year's Day
- Memorial Day
- Independence Day
- Labor Day
- Veterans Day
- Thanksgiving Day
- Day after Thanksgiving
- Christmas Day

If your job requires you to work on one of these holidays, you may be paid overtime.

Paid Holidays for all Employees

MH Construction recognizes the following nine holidays as paid Holidays for all employees:

- New Year's Day
- Memorial Day
- Independence Day
- Labor Day
- Veterans Day
- Thanksgiving Day
- Day after Thanksgiving
- Christmas Day
- Floating Holiday

Should a holiday fall on a Saturday, the preceding Friday will be considered the paid holiday; if a holiday falls on a Sunday, the following Monday will be considered the paid holiday. Employees who work in a department that regularly operates 7 days a week will be scheduled for an alternate day off if they work on the holiday. Employees who do not perform any work during the week in which a paid holiday occurs, and who are not using approved PTO or sick time during that week, are not eligible to receive holiday pay.

If your job requires you to work on one of these holidays, you may be paid overtime.
If a paid holiday occurs during your vacation, you will not be charged for a vacation day. If you choose, your vacation can be extended by an additional day.

Personal time is any time an employee is not at work during their normal work schedule. This time can be used for sicknesses, vacation, compassionate leave, maternity leave, or ANY other reason an employee is not at work.

Arrangements for personal time off must be made with the employee's supervisor as far in advance as possible. At least 2 weeks' notice is required for scheduling more than 2 days personal time off. All personal time off must be made on a request form provided and approved by your supervisor.

When reporting sick to work, make sure you report to the superintendent that you are assigned to work with that day. If you are a superintendent or are working on a site by yourself, report to the manpower coordinator or to management. Submit a leave request form to the office for that time.

If conflicts arise due to overlapping time off requests, management will decide on a case-by-case basis. A reasonable effort will be made to give you the time off per your request, however, due to departmental workload, there may be times of the year when extended personal time off cannot be accommodated.

A physician's note is required for employees missing 3 or more days of work due to illness.

PTO is separate from Sick Time accrual and no PTO will carry forward to the next year. PTO allocation resets January 1st of each year.

A Leave of Absence is an approved period of inactive employment. Although part or all of an approved Leave of Absence may be unpaid, your benefits will continue in effect during this period provided you pay all required premiums (for the full amount of the premium) on a timely basis. If your absence is subject to the Family Medical Leave Act, the employer portion of your benefit premiums will continue to be paid by MH Construction Inc. for up to 12 weeks. You will be responsible for the employee portion of the premium owed.

Maternity leave is considered a leave of absence as defined above; except that an employee may first use all accumulated personal time prior to any leave of absence.

MH Construction Inc. supports your right to vote and urges you to do so. Salaried employees will be allowed up to one hour off with pay for voting in state and federal elections, providing you get your supervisor's approval in advance.

Employees who are required to be absent for military duty will be accorded all benefits provided by law. Any employee who is required to take a leave of absence for military duty must provide military orders related to the expected absence.

Hourly and Salaried Employees are eligible for PTO. Personal time is allocated according to the length of service and to the date of hire as follows:

At date of hire	40 hours PTO
1 st of following calendar year after hire date	80 hours PTO
1 st of second calendar year after hire date	80 hours PTO

PTO allocation resets January 1st of each year.

Hourly employees, when your personal time is used up and you are not at work, you will not be paid for the time missed from work.

Employees may not carry forward any PTO hours remaining into the next calendar year unless authorized in writing by management.

Salaried Employees, when your personal time is used up and you are not at work for a full day, or if no work is performed for an entire work week, you will not be paid for the time missed from work.

PTO does not count as hours worked and does not count towards overtime.

Travel

If employees are required to use their own vehicle for company business, they will be reimbursed for their fuel. This does not include daily travel to the job site. Related parking expenses for a company-approved trip will be reimbursed with presentation of a receipt. Receipts should be turned in during the pay period in which they occur. Traffic and parking violations will not be reimbursed. Expenses other than in-town job-related travel by staff members must be pre-approved.

If you must entertain prospective clients or others while on a trip, you are expected to keep the expenses reasonable. You will be reimbursed for these expenses if they are reasonable. These expenses must be pre-approved by the President.

If you use your personal vehicle for a company errand or trip, you must be prepared to take all legal or civil responsibility for your driving as well as ensure that your vehicle is in safe driving condition. The company will not be responsible for any accident, theft, or other occurrences when you are using your own vehicle. The fuel reimbursement you receive includes wear and tears as well as insurance for the miles that you use your car. You may not use your vehicle for a company errand or trip if you do not have insurance to cover any potential accident, theft, or other vehicle related occurrence. By using your own vehicle, you agree to indemnify the company from any liability due to your own driving. You are not to use

Personal Phone Calls, Mail, & E-mails

The use of a company email address is for company business only. Do not provide your company email for personal communications or personal online accounts.

Management reserves the right to monitor e-mail and to have all passwords and access codes for files created on company time or for the company's benefit.

If any unauthorized employee accesses another employee's files, company records, e-mail or voice mail without specific authorization, they may be subject to a warning or termination depending upon the severity of the access.

Limit the number of personal calls made or taken during business hours. Keep your conversations under 3 minutes so as not to tie up the business lines.

If you want someone to know your personal phone number at home, please provide him or her with that information. MH Construction Inc. does not release such personal information to outside callers.

Long-distance personal calls should not be made on business lines. Obtain your supervisors' approval if you need to make a personal long-distance call on the business line. You will be expected to reimburse MH Construction Inc. for the call.

All personal mail must be directed to your home. Personal business activities are not to be conducted during working hours.

Performance Reviews

Your performance will be reviewed during and at the end of your 90-day probationary period as well as yearly, throughout your employment. If your performance is found satisfactory following the probationary period, you may become a fully participating staff member eligible for group benefits, as outlined in the employee categories.

All employees should know how they are performing on the job and what steps they might take to improve their job performance. Each employee's performance will be reviewed at regular intervals. At the time of review, the employee will meet with their immediate supervisor to discuss strengths and weaknesses, career development, goals, and objectives. A written review will be placed in the employee's personnel file after that discussion. The employee will be asked to sign this document to acknowledge the discussion with their supervisor. A copy will also be given to the employee for their personal files.

Pay increases are not part of the review process unless indicated by your supervisor. All pay increases are based on merit.